Tutor/Supervisor Of The Year

The winners for this award:

College of Business Arts and Social Sciences

Chima Mordi

“He always starts from the scratch so that it is not too difficult for students who don't have a previous background of Human Resources management. He encourages you to ask as many questions about the subject and never hesitates to answer them, more than one time.”

College of Engineering
Design and Physical Sciences

Konstantinos Banitsas

“Dr. Banitsas and I would have 2 meetings a week where we would meet and talk about progress and ideas on what to do next. These meetings helped me stay on track and understand exactly what is required for my project. Even when we don't meet, we would chat almost every day on updates and he'd sometimes link me to an article he came across that he thought might help me.”

College of Health and Life Sciences

Elisabete Silva

“Since the beginning of my PhD Elisabete has inspired me with her enthusiasm and determination within research. She has nurtured my professional development both inside and out of my PhD. She is always available to help me when needed and will always go the extra mile to help me be successful in my work.”

Tutor/Supervisor Of The Year

The winner for this award:

Brunel University London

Chima Mordi

“He's always willing to help if I have any doubts about the subject or if I need extra time. He will not only provide with his valuable feedback and guidance but also go above and beyond his call of duty to make sure that his students do well .He is also a very positive person who always encourages me to do my best and motivates me.”

Lecturer Of The Year

The winner for this award:

College of Business Arts and Social Sciences

Elizabeth Evenden-Kenyon

"She uses different teaching methods in class not only by her talking but also the whole class participates in different activities every week. This makes every individual believing in themselves as well as teaching us how to work in a team."

College of Engineering Design and Physical Sciences

Martin Greenhow

"He motivates and inspires me because he is very communicative always e-mailing us and informing us of news and once even e-mailed us BBC news, which was fun and new."

College of Health and Life Sciences

Panagiota Nikopoulou Smyrni

"Panagiota is always enthusiastic, tries to get us to interact in the lectures, she is very human and kind to the students, and she is funny. She likes to break down concepts into manageable chunks. Panagiota likes to get feedback because she knows how valuable it is. I also like the other lecturers, but Panagiota is one of a kind."

Lecturer Of The Year

The winner for this award:

Brunel University London

Elizabeth Evenden-Kenyon

“Elizabeth continually ensures that all students are motivated and understand exactly what is going on. She gives numerous resources for us to further our knowledge and creates fun sessions in seminars where we get to delve into the extracts and write our opinions on whiteboards. We then use these to revise from meaning that everyone helps each other learn. There is an incredible feeling when you step into one of Elizabeth's lectures knowing that when you walk out you will have learnt something you never knew and challenge yourself in a way you haven't before.”

Outstanding Feedback

The winners for this award:

Brunel University London

Emma Wainwright

"You can tell that she takes her time to thoroughly read, digest and critique our work. What I personally love is the fact that she gives electronic feedback and then provides handwritten assessment feedback with extra comments. You can see that she has gone through each line carefully offering clear and concise feedback. Her feedback is both positive and highlights areas of development."

Exceptional Support Staff

The winners for this award:

Brunel University London

Louise Baddeley

“Louise was always welcoming when I contacted her for support. She was generous with her time and empathetic. It made a difficult situation much easier, as I had someone completely on my side. She liaised with the academic staff with me in order to help my wishes be communicated and valued. This allowed me to continue attending the course with the adjustments she helped me put in place.”
